A K-12 Guide to Finding a Great School for Your Child

About GreatSchools

GreatSchools is an independent, nonprofit organization that improves education by inspiring parents to get involved. We empower parents with information and tools so they can choose the best school for their children, support their children's education, and improve schools in their communities. Parents choose GreatSchools to connect with each other – to find the right schools, share stories and advice, and get their parenting questions answered.

In the past year alone, more than 37.5 million people visited GreatSchools (www.greatschools.org). With hundreds of thousands of ratings and parent reviews about schools across the country, GreatSchools is the paramount parent-to-parent education community.

How to Use this Guide

The Milwaukee School Chooser is designed to help parents choose a school in Milwaukee, WI. It will help you explore your options and find the right school for your child. It explains what you need to do and when you need to do it.

Need a QUICK START? Here are ways this book can immediately help you with your search:

1. Search by location: Narrow (or expand) your choices, using the maps on p. 134.
2. Search by High Test Score Rating: Identify high performing schools using the index on p. 137.
3. Search by Theme or Special Education Offerings: Find schools with special focuses using the indices on p. 138.
4. Review School Profiles: If you want to jump right into the school profiles to research schools you already know of, first review the School Profiles Key on pp. 10-11 to understand the information you will find for each school (things like school hours, sports, transportation, etc.).
5. Use the Workbook: Skip directly to the Workbook on p. 17 to take you through the selection process.

WKCE Test Scores and Value-added Growth

The Wisconsin Knowledge and Concepts Examination (WKCE) is our Wisconsin state test, and it measures proficiency in our state standards for reading and math for grades 3-8 and 10th, along with a broader range of subjects at the 4th, 8th, and 10th grade level. It is given to all children in public schools (including independent charters), as well as to students who attend private schools through the Milwaukee Parental Choice Program (MPCP).

In this guide WKCE data is the basis for two academic achievement indicators: test scores and value-added growth. Test scores show a “moment in time” while value-added growth looks at the results of two or more annual tests and indicates whether students are making more or less progress over time than their peers at other schools, while factoring out the characteristics of the student population that might give some schools an advantage over others (such as lower poverty levels). Value-added growth uses statistics to level the playing field among schools and compare gains.

These achievement indicators are provided for all types of schools—district, independent charter, and private—and are based on statistical comparisons¹ to place schools in one of three categories:

High: Near, at, and above WKCE state average. Most students at these schools score well or are making significant gains. You can focus your research and visit questions on enrichment opportunities and course offerings that support your child’s interest in addition to school culture, programs, etc.

Average: Below WKCE state average. Student scores at these schools are not consistently high or value-added growth is not statistically significantly higher or lower than the state average. Focus your visit questions on how students who are similar to your child do academically, as well as enrichment opportunities or academic supports, etc.

Low: Significantly below WKCE state average. Most students at these schools score poorly or are gaining significantly slower than the state average. Ask the school why! While low scores or slow growth is generally a bad sign, there can be special circumstances to consider.

Since private schools are not required to test their non-MPCP students (although many opted to test all students), a private school’s test scores may only reflect a subset of its population. WKCE scores for private schools were included in this guide only if at least 50% of students were tested.²

¹ For a more detailed description of statistical methodology, please go to www.greatschools.org/milwaukee and click the link for “Statistical methodology for the Milwaukee School Chooser.”

² Which, we realize, still doesn’t make a completely “apples to apples” comparison. This is the first time private schools were required to give the WKCE, and there were some challenges/glitches at the state and local level. Comparisons between private and public schools are not perfect. For example in some cases, only lower income children (those eligible for a voucher) at private schools were tested, so some scores may not reflect the whole of their student population. And in other cases, parents exercised their right to opt their children out of testing, which caused a “zero” to be averaged into a school’s results, drastically artificially lowering scores in a couple cases. Although we were constrained by what data was publicly available, we felt it was important to provide parents with some indicators for private school quality. So rather than leaving out all data, we provided a “special circumstances” box to allow schools to provide explanations. We expect this measure to improve as DPI and the schools gain experience in tracking the data and understand the implications of incomplete data.

Test Scores and Value-added growth tell a story together

When possible, use test scores and value-added growth together to get a better picture of student achievement. A school with “low” reading test scores and “high” reading value-added growth might indicate that this school accepts students with very, very low scores but is very successful in “catching them up” over time. That might be exactly what you are looking for.

Or a school with “average” math test scores and “low” value-added growth means that students score average on standardized tests upon entering the school, but grow more slowly than similar students in other schools, and thus may eventually fall behind.

Ask school leaders to explain the story behind the test indicators you see in this guide before you make your decision!

More about Test Scores: Test scores indicate how well a group of 4th, 8th or 10th grade students at a particular school scored on the WKCE on the day they took the test. These test scores give you one indication of the academic success of a school, but they should not be used as the only factor to judge a school. It is important to consider other features such as teacher qualification, principal leadership, student-teacher ratio, art and music programs, school safety, etc. While we understand that test scores can only show you a snapshot in time of how a school is doing academically, it is still a good place to start.

Schools were assigned a test score color code according to the following:

High: students scoring an average of 10 points below state average and higher

Average: students scoring an average between 10 and 25 points below state average

Low: students scoring an average of 25 points below state average and lower

Test Scores - Milwaukee Area Schools in 2010

Each dot on the graph represents a Milwaukee area school and tells how students at that school score on standardized tests compared to students throughout the state. A school's test score is based on a three year average of student test scores in either grade 4, 8, or 10 – depending on the highest grade at the school. For example, for a school serving K-5th graders would have its average based on three years of the 4th graders test scores.

Please note that the vast majority of Milwaukee schools—even those with “high” ratings—still fall below the state average!

Trend arrows

When a school's average test scores vary significantly over time, a trend arrow is included. This means that the change is statistically significant and not due to chance. Student test scores have either significantly improved or declined over the past four to five years at schools with a trend arrow. If a school does not have a trend arrow we cannot say with confidence that the school has improved or declined in the last four to five years.

More about Value-added growth: Value-added growth tells us how much student test scores are growing over time while taking a number of factors into account. Student characteristics, such as gender, race/ethnicity, income, special education status, ESL/ELL status and prior test

³ We used only 4th, 8th or 10th grade scores because they were most comparable among the different types of schools and because private schools have been required to test their MPCP students at those grades for several years, allowing us to use a three-year average. We picked the highest grade at a school because that should mean a school's test scores are more likely to be a product of students with whom they've had the most contact.

scores are factored into the analysis in a way that allows us to make a fair comparison among all students.⁴

If results say that a school has “high value-added growth” (green), this means students at that school are growing academically faster than similar students at other schools. If results say that a school has “low value added growth”(red), that could be an indication that the school may need to allocate resources in a different way in order to have a greater positive impact on students.

Each dot on the graph represents a Milwaukee area school and tells how much student WKCE scores at that school have improved or grown over the last year.⁵

Schools are assigned a value-added growth color code according to the following:

High: students growing significantly faster than the state average (in top 16% of schools)

Average: students growing as fast as the state average (in middle 68% of schools)

Low: students growing significantly slower than the state average (in bottom 16% of schools)

Value-added growth relies on having the same students test year after year. Because in high schools the WKCE is administered only at the 10th grade (and not the 9th, 11th or 12th), we cannot provide value-added growth data for them. Instead ACT scores are given for high schools when available to provide another way to look at student academic achievement.

ACT Test Scores

The ACT is a standardized test often used as a measure of college readiness and given to high school students. Most colleges and universities require students to take this test before being considered for admission. It consists of four tests: English, Reading, Math, and Science, and scores range from 1-36. The average freshman at UW-Madison scores a 27-29 on the ACT, but the entrance scores for other UW-system schools are lower, such as an average composite of 20 at UW-Parkside. The Milwaukee Public Schools began administering district-wide ACT testing to all juniors during the 2008-09 school year, becoming the first district in Wisconsin to do so.

Students often take the ACT more than once as Juniors and/or Seniors to try to improve their score. This strategy, as well as using widely-available study guides, usually works so make your student prepare!

Final note on test scores

District and independent charter school test scores are publicly available, and you can find grade-level achievement data at GreatSchools.org by searching for the school you wish to see. Private school WKCE scores for students participating in the Milwaukee Parental Choice Program can be found at <http://dpi.state.wi.us/sms/choice.html>. If you would like whole school information, private schools are usually happy to provide it to parents when asked, so contact the school directly to get this information. Be skeptical and dig deeper if a school will not provide achievement information at your request!

⁴ Tracking individual students for several years provides the most accurate value-added growth data. This was possible for public schools, but could only be collected on a voluntary basis from private schools, since this is the first time publicly published test data is required. This situation is complicated by the fact that most Milwaukee private schools used a test different from and not easily comparable to the WKCE prior to the new WKCE requirement, such as the Terra Nova or ITBS. More than 25 private schools are working with the Value-Added Research Center (VARC)—the statistical research program at UW-Madison that is the nation's leader on this work—to provide value-added growth data from past years, but time and human resource constraints limited the number that could be included in this guide. Next year's MSC will be more robust for private school value-added growth as annual WKCE data is publicly available.

Why is Choosing the Right School Important?

When you choose a great school for your child, from preschool to high school, it will have a lasting impact on his or her life. Schools vary widely. They have different degrees of success in teaching their students math, reading, and other subjects; providing a safe environment for learning; preparing students for the world of work and college; and developing well-adjusted, responsible young adults. Some schools do many of these things well, and some schools may have mixed results, while still others face significant challenges.

When it comes to education, one size does not fit all. Different children thrive in different settings, so it is important for you to consider what type of school and school environment will help ensure your child's success. Choosing the right school for your child may seem difficult, but you can do it if you take it one step at a time.

Step 1: Think about needs

Your student's needs

As you begin thinking about choosing a school, first consider carefully what your child needs from his or her school. There are many important things to think about:

Instruction and curriculum: What teaching style will best help your child succeed? Does your child perform better in a traditional classroom in which the teacher directs all activities? Or does your child need more freedom to explore and pursue his or her own interests? Is it important for your child to study religion, or a foreign language? Does your child need a college prep curriculum or training for a particular job? How important are test scores?

School and class size: Will your child do better in a small school where she/he will get more one-on-one attention or a large school that offers more special services, programs, and activities? Keep in mind that the total number of students in a school does not tell the whole story. You may find a large school that also offers small classes. You may also find that classes at a small school are larger than you expected.

Special programs and services: Does your child have special needs? Look for a school that can provide these support services:

- * Special education
- * Honors/gifted and talented programs
- * Classes for English Language Learners (ELL)
- * Counseling
- * Accommodations for a physical disability
- * Speech services

Social and extra-curricular issues: What is your ideal makeup for a school for your child? Should it be co-ed or single sex? What type of racial/ethnic/socio-economic mix is important to you? What activities (e.g., chess club, yearbook) does your child want to participate in? Do you want a school that provides community service opportunities?

Educating the whole child: Is it important for your child to be taught more than just core academic subjects (English/language arts, math, science, social studies)? Does the school offer arts and music programs, physical education classes, or sports that students can play? The arts provide opportunities for students to express themselves creatively, and learning to play a musical instrument instills discipline. A student who participates in regular physical education is more likely to remain motivated to stay healthy and physically active throughout adulthood.

If the school you are considering does not provide arts or physical education, find out what after-school activities are available.

Your family's needs

The choice of your child's school will affect your whole family. You will need to balance your child's needs with those of your family.

Transportation: Will you be driving your child or will she/he be getting to school independently? Is it important that the school be near a bus stop? Do you want the school to be near your home or your job? Does your child need special services?* (*Note: Some district schools provide transportation only for special needs students.)

Before- and/or after-school care: Some schools provide both before- and after-care, some offer one or the other, and others do not offer them at all. The schools that do provide these programs sometimes do so for free, and others charge a fee. You will want to get information on what programs may be available, the potential cost, and the hours of operation.

Meal programs: All Milwaukee Public Schools (MPS) offer free breakfast for all students and free or reduced price lunch for eligible students. Many independent charter schools do the same. Meal programs at private schools may vary, with some including the cost of meals in the tuition. You will want to call schools individually to get more details.

Free and reduced price lunch: Your annual income must fall below the levels in this table to qualify for free or reduced price lunch. These are the levels for 2011-2012, which are updated annually:

Tuition and financial aid: If you are interested in a private school, tuition costs can vary along with what is included in those costs. Most Milwaukee schools participate in the Milwaukee Parental Choice Program (MPCP) and also offer financial aid or accept other financial assistance.

Parent involvement: Understanding how a school involves parents is something you should keep in mind when you are considering where to send your child. Contact the school to learn what the parent involvement policy is (most schools should have a written plan) and also use www.greatschools.org to connect with other parents to get their thoughts.

Sit down with your child and have a family conversation about the things you both want in a school and ask yourselves how important those things are (very, somewhat, not at all)? Use the Milwaukee School Chooser needs worksheet found on p. 18 to help you write it all down and keep track.

Number in family	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	Each additional
Reduced price lunch	27,214	34,281	41,348	48,415	55,482	62,549	69,616	7,067
Free lunch	19,123	24,089	29,055	34,021	38,987	43,953	48,919	4,966

Step 2: Understand the choices

Public, private, charter schools: What are they?

To decide which school is best for your child, learn about the types of schools available in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee Public Schools (MPS) traditional schools

- * Free to those who attend. Funded through tax dollars.
- * To apply, parents must list their top three school choices in MPS and are usually granted their first choice.
- * Some high schools require an application, entrance exam or audition, and these usually enroll in October/November for the following year.
- * Must meet state academic standards, participate in state standardized testing and follow the No Child Left Behind Law.

MPS Charter Schools

- * Free to those who attend. Funded through tax dollars.
- * As with traditional MPS schools, parents must include a desired MPS charter school in their top three choices.
- * Will accept any Milwaukee student, if there is space. If there isn't enough space, students are put on a waiting list.
- * Charter schools have more flexibility in developing their academic programs, hiring teachers and managing their budgets than traditional public schools.
- * Must meet state academic standards, participate in state standardized testing and follow the No Child Left Behind Law.

Independent Charter Schools

- * Free to those who attend. Funded through tax dollars.
- * Independent charter schools in Milwaukee are authorized by the City of Milwaukee or the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, not by MPS.
- * Interested students must apply directly with the school.
- * Will accept any Milwaukee student, if there is space. If there is not enough space for all who apply, students are chosen through a random lottery.
- * Charter schools have more flexibility in developing their academic programs, hiring teachers and managing their budgets than traditional public schools.
- * Must meet state academic standards, participate in state standardized testing and follow the No Child Left Behind Law.

Virtual Charter Schools

- * Are most appropriate for self-disciplined, independent learners.
- * Virtual schools don't have an actual school building or campus where students attend but they do have a virtual "campus" on the Web.
- * Students enroll, log on from home and follow the curriculum that the online school provides.
- * To see a list of these schools, go to the Wisconsin Department of Education's Web site, and the page entitled Virtual Schools in Wisconsin: <http://dpi.wi.gov/imt/vewis.html> or email milwaukee@greatschools.org.

Private Schools

- * Charge tuition. Funded through tuition, fundraising, donations and grants. Tuition in Milwaukee private schools ranges from approximately $2,000 to $8,000 or more per year. (Most private schools in Milwaukee participate in the Milwaukee Parental Choice Program, which makes them free to eligible low-income families. See "Vouchers through the Milwaukee Parental Choice Program" below.)

- * Students who want to attend must apply. Private schools decide who may attend.
- * Private schools have the freedom to develop specialized programs, curriculum, etc.
- * Must meet minimum state private school academic requirements.
- * Many are religious; some are not.

How to make private schools work for you

Think you don't have enough money to send your child to a private school? Think again. Don't rule out private schools just because of the tuition. There may be resources to help you pay for it. The two main categories of help are vouchers and scholarships.

Vouchers through the Milwaukee Parental Choice Program (MPCP)

- * Vouchers pay for all of the recipient's cost at private schools participating in the MPCP.
- * To qualify, students must live in the city of Milwaukee and have a household income at or below 300% of the poverty level.
- * To attend a private school using the MPCP, parents fill out an application directly with the private school of their choice.
- * MPCP schools cannot reject MPCP students for prior academic performance, behavior history or special needs status.
- * If a grade level is over-enrolled, the school must accept students based on a random lottery.

- * MPCP students are not required to participate in religious activities at MPCP schools.
- * MPCP schools must be accredited by one of several approved agencies or be on track to be accredited within three years.
- * Accreditation agencies have a variety of teacher qualification requirements, curriculum requirements, testing requirements and organizational structure requirements.
- * All MPCP students must take the state WKCE test.
- * MPCP schools are subject to a variety of state-imposed fiscal requirements. (See p.15 for financial eligibility chart.)

School scholarships

- * Some private schools offer their own scholarships for students with financial needs.
- * Contact the school directly to ask about scholarships or financial aid.

School profiles key

- = MPS, MPS Charter, or MPS Charter*
- = Independent Charter School
- = Private School

* = The * indicates that school staff are not district employees although most are certified.

 = An  after a school name indicates that the school gives admissions tests or auditions during early enrollment in October.

The letters and shaded region of the map indicate the region in which the school is located. For example, the letters "SW" show that this school is in the Southwest part of the city of Milwaukee. See pp. 138-139 for an index showing all six regions (NW, NE, CW, CE, SW, SE) and the schools within them.

Tuition: the cost of attending a private school this year for one child. Cost may vary depending on grade level or church membership.

Financial Aid: school-based aid available and/or outside forms of aid accepted.

ESL/ELL Services and Special Education Services: show what level of service a school provides (none, limited, moderate, intensive). The percentage of students taking advantage of services is provided in parenthesis after the level.

Programs/Resources:

(See pp. 2-4 for more information):

Green: near and above the state average

Yellow: below state average

Red: significantly below state average

Trend arrow: significantly improved (up arrow) or declined (down arrow); no arrow means researchers couldn't determine a trend

ACT Test Scores: (based on a specific graduating class, such as the class of 2011)

Composite: the average of the most recent test of all the students taking the ACT test of testers: count of students included in the composite % of eligible testers: the number of graduating students who actually took the test divided by the total number of graduates

Attendance rate: percentage of all school student attendance in 2010-2011

Attendance rate star: at or above the state average compared to other schools with similar grade configurations (elementary/K-8, high school, and combined grades).

Student return rate: a measure of "customer satisfaction" which shows the percentage of students eligible to return to a school (e.g., after subtracting out those who complete the highest grade in that school) who decide to do so.

Student return rate star: 85% return rate or above (approximately the top quartile, or 25%, of schools).

Grad/completion rate: Indicates the percentage of HIGH SCHOOL students who received a regular diploma within four years

Grad/completion rate star: Indicates a school is at or above the state average

Sample Test Data: Use these two examples to follow along with the descriptions of testing data provided.

WKCE State Test	Test Scores	Value-Added Growth
Reading	HIGH 	LOW
Math	HIGH	AVERAGE
Attendance Rate	96%
Student Return Rate	94%

Attendance Rate	76%
Student Return Rate	32%
Graduation Rate	56%

Promotion rate: Indicates the percentage of 8th grade students who were promoted to 9th grade; for 2009-10, the state average for this measure was 99.5%. No "star" rating is given for this measure since so many schools had 100% grade 8 promotion rates.

Blue Ribbon: Indicates exemplary test scores (top 10%) when compared to other Milwaukee schools with a similar percentage of free/reduced lunch students. Each school was placed in one of three categories according to the percentage of free/reduced lunch students they serve; high (90% and above); medium (50% - 89%), and low (below 50% of students). "M" is a math Blue Ribbon; "R" is a reading Blue Ribbon; and M/R is a school that is exemplary in both.

Step 3: Visit your top choices

Our Web site contains more than we could ever include in this printed guide, but no single piece of information tells the whole story. Visiting is the only way you can tell whether you and your child will feel safe and comfortable at the school. You will also be able to see whether the teachers are enthusiastic and the students are engaged in learning.

Now that you have narrowed your choices, it is time to visit the schools:

Schedule your visit. Pick three or four dates and times that work best for you and then call the school. Explain that you are considering applying or enrolling your child and would like to visit. Find out if you will be able to meet the principal and observe classes while you are there. Have your calendar handy so you can write down the date and time of your visit. School phone numbers are provided on the school profiles beginning on p. 25.

Think about what you want to see at the school. Before you go, use the Milwaukee School Chooser visit worksheet on p. 22 to help write down the questions you want to make sure you ask during your visit. (You can also print extra copies at www.greatschools.org/milwaukee.)

Your observations of the school can start the moment you get there. Make sure you take the Milwaukee School Chooser visit worksheet and a pen so you can record your observations and the answers to the questions you prepared in advance.

Arrive early. Plan to get to the school 10 minutes before your scheduled visit and check in at the main office when you arrive. That will give you a chance to check out the neighborhood and watch how the front office works (Do they greet you? Are they polite? Are phones answered promptly?). You also may receive a visitor's pass to wear during your visit.

Ask and observe. This is your chance to get the information you need to make the best choice for you and your child. You have prepared your questions in advance and you are ready, so do not be afraid to ask them or others if they come up. And don't worry if you forget to ask something important; you can always call later.

Visiting classrooms is an important part of the school visit and may tell you the most about whether the school is a good place for your child. Visit as many classes as you can, but when you are in classrooms do not disturb the students' learning.

Keep your eyes open and think about all the things you see: the schoolyard, the classrooms, and the area around the school. Record your observations on the Milwaukee School Chooser visit worksheet you brought with you.

Have a great visit!

Step 4: Make your decision

Now that you have visited your top choices, you should have a good idea which schools are a good fit for your child. Start by looking over the notes you took during your school visits. Use your impressions from those visits and the information you gathered to follow these next steps. They will help you find the right school(s).

Eliminate schools where you felt unwelcome or unsafe. Cross off any school on your list that does not seem like a comfortable place for you and your child. During your visit, were students roaming the halls instead of being in class? Was bad language used by students with no correction by an adult? Did it feel like the students ran the building or that adults did not consider student opinions?

Compare information about your choices to your worksheets about your child's needs and your family's needs. Look over the notes you filled in on the Milwaukee School Chooser needs worksheet on p. 18 (or printed from www.greatschools.org/milwaukee) to see how the information you collected matches what you thought would best meet the needs of your child and family.

Look at your school visit notes and rank the schools on your list. Rank the schools based on how much you liked what you saw during your visits. Keep in mind things you noticed: cleanliness, students' behavior, enthusiasm of teachers, whether students seemed engaged, and the overall feeling you got from the school.

Review these school profiles again. Use the Milwaukee School Chooser and the profiles on www.greatschools.org/milwaukee to remind yourself of specific features about each school, and then rank the schools again based on academic performance using the attainment and value-added test scores provided if available. If no scores are available, you can contact each individual school for test score information.

Keep in mind that students who attend high-performing schools are more likely to be prepared for college, the workplace, and life.

Make your decision. Once you have considered all these factors, your first choice may be obvious. If one of the schools ranks high in all categories, you have found your school! If the rankings are mixed, you may have to decide which qualities are most important to you.

Apply to more than one school. Your first choice may not be available, so you will want to apply to at least two other schools that meet most of your needs. This way, you work to ensure that your child has the opportunity to go to a school that you like.

Step 5: Apply and enroll on time

MPS—School Enrollment

(Student Services - (414) 475-8448)

The timeline for early enrollment for specialty programs is from October 5 – November 14, 2011.

Enrollment for most MPS schools is January 11 – January 29, 2012. This period is often called “Three-choice” enrollment.

Students are then assigned their school choices by MPS Student Services. MPS schools will then continue ongoing enrollment on a first-come, first-served basis until they fill their seats.

Enrollment procedures

To enroll your child in an MPS school, the three-choice form is used during the three-choice enrollment period and is available at all MPS schools and in MPS Central Office (5225 W Vliet Street).

The enrollment form allows you to select three MPS schools. Your first choice should be the one you think would be best for your child. The second and third choices should be schools you would like your child to attend if your first choice is not available. You have the right to choose any school in the district (some have restrictions on enrollment) but will not be provided transportation in all cases. After the three-choice period ends, a different MPS enrollment form will be provided to you at schools or MPS Central Office.

There are several things you will need the first time you register your child with MPS. These include:

1. The student's certified birth certificate
2. The student's immunization records
3. Proof of address (current utility bill)
4. Proof of identification of the parent (driver's license)

If the student is returning to MPS, only proof of address is needed.

Note that there are many differences among available high schools:

- * All high schools except Rufus King and Milwaukee High School of the Arts reserve 55% of seats for students in their attendance area.
- * All high schools offer different programs. Students in a program take classes designed to teach specific skills. Many specialize in career training.
- * Middle School attendance affects high school acceptance. Students with a 90% or higher attendance first semester of their eighth grade year are given preference.
- * High schools marked with an  on their profile have entrance requirements. These may include things like GPA requirements, auditions and extracurricular participation. Please attend the school's open house or call the school of interest for details regarding entrance requirements. These schools often hold an early enrollment testing period in October/November, and many fill all their seats during that time, so don't wait!

Chapter 220 Enrollment

(Transportation services (414) 475-8298 or (414) 475-8273)

Chapter 220, the Voluntary Student Transfer Program, aims to racially integrate schools. African American, Asian, Hispanic and Native American students may attend any of 23 suburban districts that participate in the program depending upon the transportation region they live in and if seats are available in the suburban district they wish to attend. White students may attend a school in the MPS district. The Chapter 220 enrollment period runs from January 11 – January 29, 2012. Chapter 220 applications can be obtained at MPS Central Services, 5225 W. Vliet St., Room 133. Suburban residents must apply at their district office. For information on the suburban districts transportation regions, call (414) 475-8298 or (414) 475-8273.

Open Enrollment (414) 475-8353

The open-enrollment period for Milwaukee students seeking placement in suburban schools or suburban students seeking placement in MPS runs from February 8 – February 26, 2012. You begin the process by contacting the school district in which you are interested. For more information, call (414) 475-8353.

Independent Charter School Enrollment

Enrollment processes and timelines for Milwaukee's 19 independent charter schools (those authorized by the City of Milwaukee and the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee) vary by school. In order to enroll, contact the school directly to find out timelines and pick up an application.

Milwaukee School Chooser Workbook

This is a companion guide to help families choose a school. There are many schools to choose from, including public schools, independent charter schools and private schools. This Workbook will help you explore options and find the right school.

Five Steps to Choosing a School

- Step 1: Think about needs
- Step 2: Understand the choices
- Step 3: Visit your top choices
- Step 4: Make your decision
- Step 5: Apply and enroll

3030 W. Highland Blvd. | Milwaukee, WI 53208
414.297.9715 | Milwaukee@greatschools.org

Step 1: Think about needs

Where a student goes to school will affect the family as a whole. Students' needs must balance with important factors that affect the entire family.

1. Talk together about what matters in a school, and list the 5-7 factors that matter most in the table below. Consider factors such as: school/class size, learning style, special education needs, arts, sports, other extracurriculars, school culture, languages, themes, location, transportation, school calendar, tuition/fees, friends, parental involvement, safety, playground, hot lunch, uniforms, etc.
 2. Talk about how important each factor is to the student and to the family, and fill in “very,” “sort of,” “not,” “do not want,” etc. next to each factor.
 3. Rank the factors you’ve listed in order of importance (1 is most important, 7 would be least important, etc.)

Rank	Factors (ex. academic program, gym, small class sizes, etc.)	Important to STUDENT	Important to FAMILY
(Example) 2	Good math program and/or pre-engineering classes	VERY	VERY

Step 2: Understand the choices

There are many schools in the city, so it will take a little time and effort to narrow down choices to the 2 or 3 schools to visit.

1. List the 2-3 schools you've already heard about that you think might be good and that you want to find out more about:

- a. _____
- b. _____
- c. _____

2. Use available resources to find information and narrow down choices. The following resources have different information, so use all of them if you can!

GreatSchools School Chooser: The School Chooser is a print guide that contains basic information about almost all the schools in the city. If you want a free copy, call the phone number on the cover of this guide.

www.greatschools.org: The GreatSchools Web site has even more information about schools, and you can search for specific features and compare among schools you want to know more about.

GreatSchools staff and volunteer coaches: Call the number on the front of this guide if you want free help with the research process. They will help you one-on-one and/or direct you to free workshops in the community.

School staff: It's always a good idea to make a list of what you want to know and call the school directly for answers.

3. Use the worksheet on page 4 to list schools you are interested in and what you learn about them.

5.
6.
7.

Step 3: Visit your top choices

Now that you have narrowed your choices, it is time to visit. This is really the only way you will be able to tell if a school is a good fit for your child and for you.

How to make your visit a success:

1. Schedule your visit. Call the school ahead of time and set up a date and time for your visit. Find out if you will be able to speak to the principal (or vice principal) and teachers (if they are able). You also want to ask to watch classes not only at your child's grade, but the next one up. DO NOT just show up to the school.
2. Think about what you want to see. Look over the worksheets you filled out on pages 2 and 4, and use the worksheet on page 6 to help guide you. You should have 5 questions ready when you walk in the building. The more you do ahead of time to be ready, the better the visit will be.
3. Arrive early. You made the effort to schedule the visit, so it is good to show respect for the school and the staff by being on time. By arriving 10 minutes early, you have a chance to check out the neighborhood the school is in and watch how the front office works.
4. Ask and observe. The point of this visit is to get the information you need to make a choice, so asking questions is a good thing. Don't feel shy, speak up!
5. Make sure to write things down. Using the worksheet on page 6, make sure you take notes on the things you see as you are walking through the building/classrooms and write down the answers to your questions.
6. Say thank you. Make sure to thank everyone you spoke to during your visit (even if you just mouth the words to a teacher in a classroom so you don't disrupt anything).

If you get home and suddenly have some more questions to ask, that is ok. Write them down first, and then call the school to get the answers. Remember, the more questions you ask and the more answers you get, the easier it will be for you to make a good choice! BE SURE TO VISIT MORE THAN ONE SCHOOL BEFORE YOU DECIDE!

Things to Watch for When Walking Through the School and in the Classroom

School Name: _____ Visit Date: _____

ITEM	✓ = Yes, X = No
Is the front office friendly?
Are the building/classes/grounds clean?
Is there a gym or playground or field?
Is there an art room?
Is there a music room?
Is there a computer lab(s)?
Is there a science room(s)?
Does the school feel safe?

ITEM	✓ = Yes, X = No
Are teachers active in the class?
Does it look like the teacher has a plan?
Are teachers respectful of students?
Are students respectful to the teacher?
Are students respectful to each other?
Are students focused on their work?
Are students working in groups?

Question 5:	Answer:

Step 4: Make your decision

1. List the top 5 priorities you named on page 2 in the first column.
2. Write the names of the 2-3 schools you visited across the top row.
3. In the column below each school, write “Yes” in a square if that school met the priority in that row or “No” if it did not.
4. If the schools you visited did not meet your priorities, return to Step 2 and research more schools or else visit more of the schools you already researched until you find at least 2 schools (3 is better) that meet your priorities.

4.
5.

Step 5: Apply and enroll

You are all set! You have made your choices! Now what? After all that good work you and your family did, it is time to fill in the applications for the schools (at least 2 or 3) that you chose as the best fit (if they are not already your neighborhood school).

Tips:

1. If you are interested in an independent charter, private school, or specialized public school program, call the school to get an application (or go to the school's Web site as they may have an online version you can fill out and send).
2. If you are interested in a traditional public school that is not your neighborhood school, contact your district office or check out their Web site for an application.
3. Make your own list of the items in each application and check them off as you get them done. Make sure you know when each application is due!

Acknowledgements

Thank you to all school staff members who took time to provide complete data for school profiles and provide pictures. Those details make this guide valuable to families.

Many other individuals played a role. Special thanks to:

Brad Carl (University of Wisconsin), for being a thoughtful reader/researcher and providing top notch suggestions

Christina Green (Milwaukee Public Schools), for being a speedier translator than ever and with cheerful enthusiasm

Deb Lindsey and Tim McElhatton (Milwaukee Public Schools), for supporting the MPS data gathering process at every turn

Liz Richard and Eddie Ford (GreatSchools), for providing data quickly and often

Ernie Morgan, Lisa Geraghty, Mikhail Pyatigorsky, and Yan Wang (Value Added Research Center—VARC), for their patience and care in taking the testing information to ANOTHER whole new level

Jean Conrad (Inland Graphics), for making production almost painless this time—at a distance

Mail Room Staff (Milwaukee Public Schools), for once again putting up with pallets and helping with distribution

Natanya Levioff (GreatSchools DC), for being a true work partner and friend

Nzinga Khalid and Nelly Hernandez (GreatSchools Milwaukee), for proofreading, translating and bringing the guide to life with thousands of parents day after day

Olivia Buenrostro-Soto (Milwaukee Public Schools), for providing answers when she's asked

Scott San Martin and Mattie Winistorfer (Reingold, Inc.), for making the guide so beautiful, so easy to produce and SO ON TIME

Shoshannah Goldberg (IDEAL Charter School), for always asking what she could do to help and doing it for as many hours as necessary—she's the best daughter a mom could have!

Glossary of Education Terms

Block schedule: A school schedule that creates longer segments of time for classes to take place. Some block schedules might have classes meet for two hours every other day rather than daily for one hour; others might have classes meet daily for a hundred minutes, but only for a semester rather than a full academic year.

Charter school: A public school that is freed from certain operating procedures required of traditional public schools but expected by contract to produce specified results. They are often focused on a particular approach to educating students. Like all public schools, charter schools must be non-religious and non-discriminatory.

Early enrollment: The period in October and November when many highly competitive schools (both private and public) open admissions to students. Often the most selective schools accept all their students at this time and are already full before MPS's January three-choice enrollment period and/or the February enrollment period for the Milwaukee Parental Choice Program (MPCP) begins.

Enhanced school profile (ESP): A school profile is considered "enhanced" when the principal or other school official adds information to their basic GreatSchools profile. Such information includes the school's mission, schedule and calendar, detailed descriptions of curriculum and enrichment activities and in-depth information about staff, safety, student support, and community involvement.

Homeschooling: An arrangement in which parents teach their children at home instead of enrolling them in a traditional school. Contact the Department of Public Instruction at (608) 266-5761 to pursue this option.

KIPP-influenced school: KIPP (Knowledge Is Power Program) is a network of free open-enrollment college preparatory public schools in under-resourced communities throughout the United States. KIPP schools successfully graduate a high percentage of African-American and Hispanic/Latino students; most are eligible for free and reduced lunch. KIPP schools have very high expectations for students and staff. No Milwaukee schools are formal KIPP schools, but some Milwaukee schools are heavily influenced by the KIPP model for success.

Magnet school: A school that holds a particular academic discipline as its focus (e.g., science, technology, arts), in order to attract students from throughout the district or from surrounding districts. Also known as specialty schools, magnet schools were initially created in order to promote racial integration in MPS.

Milwaukee Parental Choice Program (MPCP): State-funded vouchers pay for all of the recipient's cost at private schools participating in the MPCP. To qualify, students must meet low-income criteria and reside in the city of Milwaukee.

Montessori: A school whose instructional emphasis is on creating a stimulating environment for children that includes an abundance of hands-on materials for students to interact with. These schools follow the philosophy of Maria Montessori, an educator who believed that children learn best when they have the opportunity to discover and learn in their own ways.

No Child Left Behind (NCLB) Law: A federal law designed to introduce statewide accountability systems that track the progress of schools and districts in improving student outcomes. The law allows states to determine how success is measured, usually by standardized testing. NCLB applies most strictly to schools that receive Title I money from the federal government.

PAVE (Partners Advancing Values in Education):

A privately-funded private school scholarship program, available primarily at the high school level. Scholarships are awarded according to financial need and residency in the city of Milwaukee.

Private school: A school that is established through private means and sustained through tuition and donations rather than by the government.

Project Lead The Way: Project Lead The Way® (PLTW) is a not-for-profit organization that promotes pre-engineering courses for middle and high school students. PLTW forms partnerships with public schools, higher education institutions and the private sector to increase the quantity and quality of engineers and engineering technologists graduating from our educational system.

Public school: A school supported by public funds and providing free education for children in a community. When you pay your taxes, you are paying for your child's education and the education of other children in your community.

Three-choice enrollment: The major enrollment period for MPS is in January, when students and their families are asked to select their top three choices for elementary, middle or high school or to switch schools, if necessary, the following year.

Virtual charter school: A school with no physical school building but which has a virtual "campus" on the Web. Students enroll, log on from home and follow the curriculum that the online school provides. In addition, a variety of options exist online for high school students seeking advancement or courses not offered at their traditional school.

Voucher: Vouchers are funded by the state and are available to low-income Milwaukee students to help pay tuition at the private school of their choice. Interested families must apply for vouchers through a participating private school and meet eligibility criteria.

Waldorf school: A school whose philosophy is built around children learning through simultaneous discovery of the world and themselves. Generally, concepts are taught using all the senses, and teachers present information in ways that are compatible with children's inner development. Waldorf schools introduce concepts gradually and approach learning as a slow, cumulative process, and they stress music and art in addition to academics.
